ON THE NATURE OF THE AEROFORMS: We have repeatedly described the aeroforms as emergents - meaning thereby that they emerge out of one space-time frame of reference into another, by means of converting their energy rates, or frequencies. When they enter the frequencies of color, sound and tangibility to which our senses react, we are able to perceive them. This word emergent was recommended by the Mark Probert Controls as being the most suitable expression at our command.

The most common and obvious feature of the aeroforms is the fact that they are mutants. They frequently change their shape, size, color and other characteristics while under observation. Yet because in the very rare cases of 'landings' the Discs appear to be, and are solid, and for a time retain their shape and size, the fact that nine-tenths of all the 'air-borne' craft are in constant mutation is stupidly overlooked.

This all-significant matter of mutation points directly to one or all of the following inferences: (a) the substance of which the Discs are composed is of nature and kind quite unlike matter as known to our daily experience - or, (b)- it is matter of the sort familiar to us, but is being operated on by forces we cannot ourselves use and control - or, (c) substance of an unknown nature is being con - trolled by equally unfamiliar forces. And all the data point to such control as being intelligent and purposeful.

Well-authenticated cases of 'landings' would number from (say) a dozen, to three or four, according to one's personal evaluation. But the sightings of 'air-borne' forms reported from a great mid-western air base average about 800 a week, and these are nearly always observed to be mutants. Yet every one of the puerile 'ex- planations' has concentrated on the very rare 'landings' - where we seem to have before our eyes a huge metallic construction with various pieces of mysterious apparati. Since these objects are indeed - to repeat - quite as material and 'solid' as, say, any landed plane, the tens of thousands of mutants overhead are dismissed without further consideration.

There are, however, several well-known investigators who say in effect: 'It is true that there is an immense variety of Aeroforms present, and we do not say that they are all alike, or all to be judged by the very rare cases of 'landed' Discs. But we think it is certain and most obvious that some of these craft are manufact- ured - tooled out as much as any plane or motor of our own - and hence produced by beings, and in materials which belong to our own world of vibratory frequencies ; - - - - - and so on. Immediately then, we begin to envision hangars and space - craft plants and super-machine shops on Mars or Venus . . . .

Let us, with due reverence, rephrase a familiar line: 'Forgive us our simplici- ties, and lead us not into sheepfolds!' A scientist-adept of our acquaintance has cried out of late: "These purveyors of personal adventures on board the Discs are (all unwittingly) working more evil than the ravagings of Genghis Khan!" And why? Because through understandable ignorance they skim the surface of these hap- penings, as the long-legged water-skimmer on the surface of unfathomable pools. Because they seduce their hearers into false and smug simplicities. Because the awakening from these titillating dreams must follow, into the disillusionment of incredible facts.....

And also there are actually some who say: 'For their own good, people must be allowed many kinds of delusions, and even maintained and encouraged in them.' How familiar this laissez-faire policy, this rascally Jesuitism has become to most of us! It has been used to justify thousands of years of lies and plundering, by Powers secular and ecclesiastical, and the age-long degradation of nearly the whole of humanity. It is NOT the principle which must and will govern the new mind, the new age, the new ways of humanity. . . And then there are the many who will never accept the truth about the Aeroforms, because of fear. The indefinable fear of that which cannot be defined. "Even the atoms fear the unknown and resist change."

Now what little I have to say here is directed to that fine comforting delusion that the landed Discs are 'simply' the aerial spawn of planetary machine-shops, and are born and flit back and forth in our own space-time dimension - an idea characteristic of a crumbling age of materialism. It will be found in time that all of these craft without exception are constructs of etheric matter. This etheric substance is amenable to the energy of mind-action - of thought; and the elements or nodes of assembly may be patterned out on any planet, or any celestial body. The etheric people who construct them have experimented with life on all spheres, and they visit and study all within our solar system - and perhaps many more. And the Aeroforms which swarm by the millions in our planetary environs are not 'ships' or 'craft' as we use the words. They are Chakras of living force, obedient to the will of their makers and identified with it. Your own body at this moment is just such a living machine, built and governed and sent here or there by the mind, the psyche within which has truly built every atom and cell of it. Think carefully on this analogy - if this interpretation seems preposterous.

We may as well accept first as last, that the child-mindedness which thinks science and metaphysics are irreconcilable has small chance of being weaned. I suspect that the technicians who have witnessed "mat and demat" of the landed Discs at Muroc have had unforgetable first lessons about this - those who have managed to keep their jangled wits.

Persons who have seen a huge, 'solid' Disc turn translucent, then transparent and vanish are not impressed by the child-idea of Martian plants for the manufacture of 'space ships'.

If we must talk in terms of metals - there are such substances as etheric iron and steel and copper - the prototypes of those we know. They differ from ours in density - are enormously more dense. When their vibratory rate is decreased, objects made of them become tangible to us. Then we find that no tool of ours will scratch them, no tug of derricks and engines can move them. Small fallen fragments, ana - lyzed years ago, showed metal combinations which do not occur on our plane. In theory we know that molecules can be so arranged and altered as to present no surface to the thrust of gravity. A shield against cosmic radiation is possible. But this is etherian science, and the energy is that of thought building itself a body of etheric substance. Our formulas and equations end in the neant.

'But then' you say: 'if these huge space-craft or Discs are not an actual means and requirement for travel, why do the Etherians (or others) construct them at all. It seems to be the general law, that any intelligent entity operating on any plane of matter and consciousness, will naturally and conveniently conform to the conditions of that plane. Just as we would adjust our bodies, motions and instruments to the gravity, pressures and other differentia existing on another planet smaller or larger than Terra - so the Etherian operators conform to earth conditions. And since their bodies are as much 'objects' as a Disc is, these human-like physical forms are made for the occasion, and the mat and demat processes are in constant operation.

Certainly, the materialized forms of Discs and operators are material, and solid, and real. We have asserted this many times. They are also formed of etheric substance, and guided by mental means and the life force. They are chakras of mind-controlled energy - and the more closely their seeming simplicity is scrutinized, the more one finds about them that is NOT of our world. All this will be recognized in the future - perhaps in the very near future - but meanwhile it is a sealed book to the 'experts', lecturers, book writers, broadcasters, journalists, publicists of all kinds. But it is NOT necessary that the BSR Associates be caught up and drowned in this flood of inanities - and it is for our Associates that these pages are written. For eight years we have been offering data of this type, and due solely to the excellence of our sources of information, we have made no serious errors, and can now report a slow but definite swing in our favor - particularly in England.

The subject touched upon here would properly require many hundreds of pages - and so our statement appears to lie open to attack at many points. This is unavoidable at the moment, but the processes of time will abundantly justify us.

NON! NON! NON! An article from the French OURANOS, M. Jimmy Guieu, enumerates a few of the many 'explanations' advanced for the aeroforms:

1. Meteores? NON! (Meteors have their own trajectory, do not fly in circles, or go backward or hang poised)
2. Ballons-sondes? NON! (Balloons do not move against the wind, make right-angled turns, or exceed about 400 km/h)
3. Hallucinations? NON! (Too many agreements on detailed facts).
4. Engins terrestres: OUI ET NON! (A few resemble possible earth-con - structions; but for most of them only one explanation - they come from another world.

M. Guieu then proceeds methodically to ruin a score of cheap rationalizations about both the Discs and the cigar-shaped craft, also the fireballs, & aerial explosions. His map of France shows sightings of various kinds for nearly every province. All this material is classified by location and time, with a good bibliography (not omitting BSRA publications).

We again draw attention to FLYING SAUCERS ON THE MOON, by Assoc. H.T. Wilkins, well-known author and explorer pub. by Peter Owen Ltd., 50 Old Brompton Road, Lon. SW-7: 320 pgs. 16s net, $2.60. This same book is distributed by the Citadel Press, 222 4th Ave., New York 3, N.Y., under the misleading title FLYING SAUCERS ON THE ATTACK: price $3.50. This book is an admirable collection of data, the result of some ten years of research - but for some reason has been receiving the brush-off from reviewers. I suspect, because the author not only knows too much but also tells too much; is no alarmist but no soulful Pollyana either. Sorry we can't send a copy gratis to every BSR Associate. . . But don't order from us; get your copy from one of the two sources mentioned above.

REPORT OF AN AMATEUR ASTRONOMER: (Mr. W.K.O. of Southhampton, England; to Mr. Desmond Leslie and quoted by permission of the latter) -- ". . . It is with much pleasure that I forward the following details regarding my sighting of strange aerial craft on May 16th, last.

At about 11:30 P.M. on Monday, the 15th of May, I set up my 3" telescope with the purpose of studying the moon's surface and having tried my various high-powered eyepieces, decided to switch over to a lower one of 45. Having fixed same in position I once more attempted to get a focus on the moon and while passing the telescope through space I picked up a cluster of tiny pin-points of vivid blue light. On closest examination, these proved to be moving. I looked at my watch and the time was exactly 27½ minutes past midnight. Keeping the lights in the object glass, I tried to enlarge them a bit but even as I did it was impossible still to get any detail regarding the shape of the craft. However, I noticed they were flying in V-formation. I tried to count their numbers, but regret that due to them being huddled together it was not possible to get the odd few at the head of the formation. Nevertheless, I counted 14 along the forks which, by the way, were fairly well closed at the angle at which I was observing same. Unfortunately, there wasn't time to fit my 200 eyepiece so had to content myself with the one already in use. As I followed the procession through space the moon suddenly came into view and the mysterious craft appeared to be heading straight for it; as they entered the brilliance of the moon they immediately showed up black and it was then that I was able to get some idea of their shape. Although very small I could see the outline of those along the nearside fork quite clearly, and can definitely say beyond any shadow of doubt that these craft were flat with something rising up in the center.

While in this clear state I counted them a second time and made the number 15; am certain there could have been only two or three more at the head of the formation, making a fair estimation of the total number as 18, probably with 10 in one fork and 8 in the other.

Obviously, due to using an astro eyepiece for the observation, the objects, as well as the direction in which they were travelling, and also the details of the moon's face, appeared in the opposite position to that which would be seen with the naked eye, so I would mention that the following information has been taken from notes made at the time of the actual sighting.

The direction in which the objects were moving was W-E and they appeared to be flying upside down; they passed across the face of the moon over the crater Taruntius on the W. side (just above the point of the supposed bridge) and continued in a straight line over the crater Cavalerius on the E. side and out into space again. I would mention here that these craft did not appear to be one mass of blazing light when out in space as has been said of so many other sightings of strange aerial objects; only the one brilliantly blue light could be seen on each of the flat shapes coming from the underside (craft upside down), Moreover, there was no sign of manoeuvering, increase of speed or change of formation. As the mysterious ships appeared to be keeping on a direct course E., I decided to take a chance on fitting the 200 eyepiece - taking care to lock the telescope on the object's course first; much to my surprise, I was able to pick the craft up once more without a great deal of trouble and although they had by this time travelled some considerable distance from the moon I managed to get a really splendid and much closer view of same on this occasion. One thing I noticed which undoubtedly will be of some interest, is the fact that the craft were of two different sizes. Unfortunately, I could see only the near side of the "V" formation, so am only able to give details of the ships in this single line. I could see 8 craft in all, of which these appeared to be in three separate batches - 3 small types at the head, 2 larger ones in the center, and 3 more small at the rear. I had the impression (and still have) that this was an escort of some kind. All were surrounded by a faint blur or misty light of some sort; as I watched I could see lighted windows in the larger craft, 5 in each, but am unable to say for certain whether these were round, oval, oblong, or square; there were also brighter pinpoints of light at intervals along the raised section of the smaller craft, but I am not prepared to say what these might have been, either, as the strange procession was by now a very long way off. Regarding the raised section in the center of the objects mentioned previously, I could see with the 200 eyepiece that this was a form of turret or conning tower. Apart from the difference in size, all the objects were of the same construction.

During the whole time of the observation which lasted for some 8-10 minutes I listened for various forms of noise that may have given a clue as to the source of power behind these strange ships from outer space, but I heard nothing, neither did I see any signs of flaming jets or smoke trails. Towards the end of the sighting there suddenly appeared a red light on the leading craft - but this seemed to come from another part of the upper structure for it in no way affected the brilliant blue light in the center of the tower. I took this second light to be a signal of some sort but regret to say that, as I watched, I saw nothing happen to justify this theory. I continued to watch the phenomena until no further detail was possible -- -- so ends the account of the 16th of May, 1954.

(Two Previous Sightings -) During the summer months of 1949 and 1950 I saw two other strange objects over this town but regret am unable to give many details.

Object No. 1 -- (1949)-appeared during a magnetic storm. While watching a particularly heavy cloud bank I saw a long cigar-shaped craft emerge from behind travelling at a colossal speed, and as it sped on towards a second bank it tilted its nose and immediately began to climb at an alarming angle; it was visible only for a matter of 30 seconds, but I saw that it was constructed of highly polished metal or some other similar material. I also noticed that it gave off a long trail of fiery sparks. The craft was 100 feet long at least and as it gathered speed for its climb into the clouds I heard a distinct roaring sound; there was also a fitting protruding from the nose of the object which suggested radar equipment being aboard.

Object No. 2 -- (1950) -was a totally different type altogether, for I was unaware of anything being in the sky at all until the whole surrounding district as far as I could see was suddenly lit up in a blaze of ghostly green light (similar to that of a parachute flare). I was talking with a friend at the time, and as we looked skyward we saw a small ball of brilliant light (more like the spark of an oxyacetylene burner), its apparent size was about as big as a golf ball; it remained motionless for about 3 minutes; then quite suddenly, blinking three times, it shot off at terrific speed in a S.E. direction, the light still on. We saw no sign of any actual craft apart from the light itself; neither was there any sound, or signs of jets, smoke trails, etc."

Hoxsey Cancer Clinic --
4507 Gaston Ave., Dallas 10, Texas. ---- "Findings Of The Doctors Who Investigated The Facilities, Procedure, and Treatment at The Hoxsey Cancer Clinic. - April 10th and 11th, 1954. This is the title of a small two-page folder obtainable from the Clinic. It describes the 48-room institution, gives details of equipment and information about Chief of Staff Dr. Randall, the Medical Director, Dr. Watt, and Dr. Staffa, Chief Diagnostician. "This Clinic now has under observation or treatment between four and five thousand cancer pa - tients. . . . ."

This investigating committee has spent two days at the Clinic inspecting the facilities, investigating the treatment, interrogating former patients and going over hundreds of charts, case histories, X-ray films, medical histories and biopsy reports. We find as a fact that our investgation has demonstrated to our satisfaction that the Hoxsey Cancer Clinic at Dallas, Texas, is successfully treating pathologically proven cases of cancer, both internal and external, without the use of surgery, radium, or x-ray. Accepting the standard yardstick of cases that have remained symptom-free in excess of five to six years after treatment, established by medical authorities, we have seen sufficient cases to warrant such a conclusion. Some of those presented before us have been free of symptoms as long as twenty - four years, and the physical evidence indicates that they are all enjoying exceptional health at this time.

We, as a Committee, feel that the Hoxsey treatment is superior to such conventional methods of treatment as x-ray, radium and surgery. We are willing to assist this Clinic in any way possible in bringing this treatment to the American public. We are willing to use it in our office, in our practice on our own patients when, at our discretion, it is deemed necessary.

The above statement represents the unanimous findings of this Committee. In testimony thereof we hereby attach our signatures."

In conclusion the folder prints facsimilies of the signatures of the ten doctors signing the report: S. Edgar Bond, M.D.; Willard G. Palmer, M.D., Hans Kalm, M.D., A. C. Timbs, M.D., Frederick H. Thurston, M.D.,D.O., E.E. Loffler, M.D., H.B. Mueller, M.D., R. C. Bowie, M.D., Benjamin F.Bowers, M.D., Roy O. Yeatts, M.D. - April 12, 1954. (Folder supplied B.S.R. Headquarters by Assoc. Mrs. H. M. Graham).

We again call the attention of all Associates to the mimeo book recently issued by BSR Hdqrs., THE COMING OF THE GUARDIANS - 65 pages, neatly bound, best mimeo work obtainable. Has recently received a very favorable TV and radio review by Earl Nightingale. This book consists mainly of statements made by the Mark Probert Controls (deep trance mediumship) concerning the aeroforms, during the last eight years. It is the only book yet offered to the public which makes this approach, and which gives a scientific and metaphysical interpretation covering all phases of the phenomena. . . Meetings recently held by Mark Probert in Chicago, New York and other eastern cities were attended by well-known scientists, psychiatrists & other professional workers ... We have a few copies left of the first printing of Coming of the Guardians, @ $2.00: the second and improved edition will be available about July 10, '54 - includes material received through ROLF TELANO, a diagram showing the etheric zones of Terra, notes on the Probert mediumship, etc. PRICE $3.00

(The following is quoted from a letter from an Associate, F.G. , of Belfast, N.Y.)-

"Editor ROUND ROBIN: Another ROUND ROBIN read and partly absorbed. Your explanation or theory regarding the sooty residue on pitted windshields, and the idea of there being radiated carbon in the atmosphere which has acquired a new property - (a piece dropped on the floor burst into a strange flame)- has set me thinking.

This locality where I live covering eight or ten counties east of Buffalo, N.Y. has had few accounts of windshield pitting -- maybe they have occurred and have been laid to"B.B."guns.

This is basically a dairy section with thousands of magnificent barns and all necessary machines and equipment. In the past two years there have been hundreds of these destroyed by fire -- excluding lightning and high winds. These fires usually occur from four to six in the morning, and invariably start in the top of the barn. No explanation has ever been given except that it might be faulty wiring. But it seems to me that the newness of the structures and the fact that insurance companies are most thorough in their inspections, would eliminate that theory. A large percentage of the barns have metal roofs. One such barn about a half mile from my home burned to the ground yesterday morning, discovered at 5:45 A.M. all afire just under the peak. There was a pea-soup fog at the time maybe containing these carbon particles that penetrated the roof and burst into flame. If they penetrate glass, why not steel or aluminum?

If this should prove to be the answer to all these fires, there is nothing that could be done about it. -- "Nobody believes 'nuthin', anyhow." --

(And this info from Assoc. Mrs. F.M.H.,of Richmond, Va.): ----

"Regarding WINDSHIELD DAMAGE: Early in May there was pock-mark glass damage to autos in the large parking lots (they have three of them) in rear of the Sears-Roebuck store here. The store takes up a city block, and has these three large parking lots which can hold hundreds of cars. It happened during the day, and my son-in-law, who is employed there, heard about and dashed out to see if his car had been damaged. He told me that it was mostly the glass of the big expensive cars with glass going around them that were damaged. Nowhere else in town have we heard of any other glass damage. These lots are not far from our big Union Station depot, and the tracks run nearby. One theory of prevalence of lung cancer now is smoke and fumes and exhaust from Diesel engines. These engines are now used on tracks near Sears. Could this be a cause, do you think?. . . . "

------- -------

On the night of July 28, Mutual broadcaster Frank Edwards reported a "rain" of small black particles, pin-head size, somewhere on the north-Pacific coast. The nature of the particles was unknown, but they were not radioactive. . . Here's hoping that some time some BSR Associate or other worthy person will collect a sample of such falls and send along to Hdqrs., or elsewhere for analysis - provided it can be kept for a time and does not fade away like the 'tin-foil' stuff. . . Again we recommend (Mutual 10:15 pm on Pac. Coast; from Wash. D.C.) Frank Edwards, for news of aeroforms. Send him a card of encouragement.

WHAT OF THE DATA:

"C.Q.C."-
C-4

" What of the data that Fort so patiently accumulated? What of the red rains, the frogs and fishes falling from the sky, the appearance and disappearance of human beings and animals? Is there a logical, plausible way of fitting them - not forcing them - into the new conceptions of the universe . . . It is becoming increasingly evident that in the cosmos which surrounds us, and of which we are a part, both space and time are subject to unpredictable variations and perturbations ... a part of the difficulty has been due to the custom of regarding space and time as separate entities. In actuality, they are only differently manifesting portions of the same whole. Time is the three-dimensional manifestation of the fourth dimension, and under the influence of the higher-dimensional forces can be manipulated, altered or warped just as easily as the physical substance which is termed matter and which occupies space. . . .

If there exist in space and time forces sufficient to affect the motions of the planets, these same forces may be responsible for much of the unusual phenomena which Fort and his successors have noted. That space can fold over, bringing two remotely separated points into juxtaposition for a moment or longer, becomes easily possible under this theory, just as a handkerchief can be folded so that a spot on one corner can be blotted onto an opposite one without disturbing the fabric between. . . . The forces which keep two places on opposite sides of the earth in a stable relationship are for a moment suspended and inactive - and in a jungle a leopard makes a step which takes him across space to a San Francisco street, unfortunately killing him in the process. The leopard might just as easily have been transported to the South Pole of the Earth, or to a moon of saturn, or only a few feet away in the same jungle - depending on what point in the universe was momentarily warped over to be contiguous with the portion of space the leopard was at that moment occupying. . .

Every word ever uttered, every sound ever made, continues to exist in the vibratory planes of nature. . . These warps in space and time may cause disturbances larger than those observed on earth. . . Stars have vanished, not by exploding but simply disappearing from sight. Three stars close together disappeared in 1914 .. even nebulae have vanished. . . By putting researchers on the track of new concepts, the vast mountain of unexplained phenomena may mark the grave of dogmatism in science, and be a guidepost to new vistas of nature. . .

(Challenge of Space, by Arthur Louis Joquel II. Pub. by House-Warven, 5228 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood 27, Calif. Pgs. 187 et pas.) (Ackn. to Assoc. Helen Gale Elliott).

The "mountain of unexplained phenomena" has now become of planetary size, largely because of the incursion of the aeroforms (UFO), which Joquel barely refers to, but certainly would accept in the same sense as other Fortean data. . . There are, of course, hundreds of scientists and many thousands of highly informed people who have accepted the reality or 'factuality' of the aeroforms for years past. The BSR Associates have been convinced of this for a near decade, and we no longer think it worth while to collect 'evidence' and 'proof' and spend time on controversy over this fundamental fact. But it is of most critical importance that the significance of that fact be grasped (if obtainable), and that we begin to open our eyes to new concepts in physics, metaphysics, philosophy, and cosmology. The 'New Age' will, I believe, be really new - not a patched revision of old ways of thinking - and we are its pioneers whether we like the idea or not. And willy-nilly-pioneers are not always either happy or fortunate. But then, "a difficulty is a cell with four walls, but it has no roof".

HOXSEY CANCER CLINIC: 4507 Gaston Avenue, Dallas 10, Texas. -- B.S.R.A. Hdqrs. has a small supply of informational material, including reprints from MAN'S MAGAZINE of August, 1954, (Vol. 2 - -No. 6) of the article, "I Conquered Cancer", by Allen Bernard. We understand that the Clinic will send this same material to anyone on request. There is probably not a single BSR Associate who does not personally know one or more persons afflicted with this disease - and we can see to it that every one of these sufferers has information about this treatment, or at least knows where to get it. The same thing applies to the KOCH TREATMENT, which the BSR Directors have ad - vocated for years. And let us keep in mind, that the fight against cancer is identical with the struggle against the A.M.A. and its evil supporters and satellites. There are also seveal other very meritorious treatments for cancer, all of which are vigorously opposed by the A.M.A. Even if y ou personally are doubtful about any or all of these - at least spread information about them, and let the unfortunate sufferers make their own decision. Such information and publicity will of itself go far toward destroying the present tyranny and exploitation.

Assoc. W.T.Black: "It might interest you to know that copies of the Proceedings of the Cancer Commission, of Ontario, Canada, can be obtained from Dr. D.H. Arnott, 226 Queen's Ave., London, Ontario, at $1.25 each. Assoc. WTB also wants information concerning the trial and conviction of Norman Baker, and about the source of the cancer treatment used by him.

Assoc. H.D. Kinney: "My principal interest is spirit photography. If you have run any articles on the subject I shall be happy to have them. Would you consider asking Associates who do such work to contact me through you? . . . "
Address Assoc. Kinney at 10535 Buford Ave., Inglewood 2, Calif.

Assoc. W.M.Liddon: 'In your CQC Bul #11, page 7, you refer to the Fitzgerald Report. For your information, this full Report was introduced in the Congressional Record on Page A 5690, under date of Aug. 28, 1953. Since that time a complete survey has been made of the Hoxsey Clinic by a group of M.D.'s " (This report was wholly favorable. ML).

PENDULUM: A Monthly Digest of Radiesthesia, is published by Markham House Press, 31 Kings Road, London, S.W. 3. Per copy, .40 The July '54 issue contains about 15 pages of summaries from the Paris Congress of 1954. As heretofore, we recommend PENDULUM for anyone interested in any phase of this immensely complicated field.

ATLANTIS, A Journal of Research, edited by Egerton Sykes, is published bi-monthly at Markham House Press (v. item above). Single, .40 This same company also publishes or supplies FLYING SAUCERS ON THE MOON, by our Assoc. H.T. WILKINS ($2.50); lately reviewed and recommended by us: also his Secret Cities of South America ($4.80), and Mysteries of South America ($2.85).

A correspondent, active in the business and industrial world, calls attention to very large purchases of mercury by the US Govt., and the resultant shortage and fantastic prices of this metal. In this connection, he adds, look over the para - graphs on the 'mercury engine' apparently used by the ancients, and described in Desmond Leslie's book, "Flying Saucers have Landed". -- By the end of July last mercury prices ran close to $300 per flask. Govt. sources would not divulge the reasons for this situation.

TOMORROW! (as seen by Philip Wylie): "C.Q.C." C-4

"In that same part of a second the proud skyline of River City and Green Prairie smoked briefly, steamed a little, and no shadows were thrown anywhere in the glare. The facades - stone, concrete, brick - glazed, crinkled, and began to slip as they melted. But the heat pene - trated too. The steel frames commenced to sag and buckle; metal, turned molten, ceased to sustain the floors upon many floors. Peaks of sky - scrapers, domes, steeples, square roofs, tilted sideways and would have toppled or crashed down, but gravity was not fast enough. For that part of a second the great region, built so slowly at such cost by men, liq- uefied and stood suspended above the ground; it could fall only 16 feet in that time. Then, in the ensuing portion of a second, the liquid state was terminated. The white in the sky bellied down, growing big and glob- ular, a thousand feet across and more. The liquids gasified; stone and cement, steel and plaster, brick and bronze and aluminum. In the street, if anyone could have seen at all, as no man could in the blind solar whiteness - there were no howling people at all. None.

On the sidewalks,for a part of a second, on sidewalks boiling like forgotten tea, were dark stains that had been people, tens of thous - ands of people. The Light went over the whole great area, like a thing switched on. The air, of a sudden, became hotter than boiling water, hotter than melted lead. Clothing caught fire, the beggar's rags, the dowager's sables, the baby's diapers, the minister's robe. Paper in the gutter burst into flame. Trees. Clapboards. The wires above 10,000 roofs - the TV antennae wires - glowed cherry red, then white, then fell apart while slate beneath melted. Every wooden house for two miles be- gan smoking. The tombstones in the cemetery glowed dully as if to an - nounce the awakening of those they memorialized.

The plutonium fist followed: . . . under the intense globe of light for a mile in every direction the city disappeared ... from the dang- ling body of light the radioactive rays fell ... A mile-sized arc with all the great skyscrapers it contained, was nothing. A flat place, in- candescent. . . "

The quotation is from Philip Wylie's TOMORROW! Published by Rine- hart & Co., Inc., and printed in condensed form by Readers Digest Assoc. (Pleasantville, N.Y.) in their condensed book selections for summer of 1954 (575 pages). The first part of this book seems scarcely up to Mr. Wylie's usual level of writing, but the quality of the last 100 pages is indicated above. According to the Digest, Mr. Wiley "has been an ex- pert in civil defense for ten years and serves the Federal Government as a consultant - and hopes that TOMORROW will be the Uncle Tom's Cabin of the atomic age!"

Writing of this type is abundantly justified by the apathy toward civil defense - it is only realization and fear which will produce act- ion. And I venture to add what Mr. Wylie cannot: if this Tomorrow is the alternative, we had best put out the Welcome mat for our sky-visit- ors and turn the planet over to them.
